Customer soul color as an effective element in designing living rooms

Dr. Hadeel Farahat
Dr. Dalia Abdel Mohaiman
Faculty of Arts and Design, October University for Modern Science and Arts (MSA university)

Abstract:
We all need to create a healing and peaceful atmosphere around ourselves. The colors in the homes and surroundings affect our physical, emotional, and mental health. By carefully choosing the colors that surround us we are indirectly caring for ourselves. If we look at the colors we choose, we can understand many clues to our personalities and inner feelings. The colors we are attracted to over long periods of time are linked to our personality type, our strengths and weaknesses, as well as indicating our potential in life. These colors preferences, which often remain unchanged for our whole life, are known as "soul color". In this research we are going to focus on the relation between choosing colors from the psychological point of view and their uses in the living rooms.

Keywords:
Spiritual Level
Emotions
Soul Colors
Color Psychology

Paper received 13th February 2018, Accepted 25th March 2018, Published 1st of April 2018